Dan Enloe re-elected Energy Trust of Oregon board treasurer Intel manager serves second term as officer for nonprofit board

HILLSBORO, Ore. — March 28, 2013 — Dan Enloe, a Washington County resident and supply chain manager at Intel Corporation, was recently elected to a second term as treasurer of the nonprofit Energy Trust of Oregon Board of Directors.

Enloe joined the board in 2008. He was elected treasurer in November 2011 to fill a vacancy and re-elected to the position in 2012 and 2013.

Before joining Intel in 1984, Enloe was a nuclear submarine officer with the U.S. Navy.

Enloe is one of four directors elected to Energy Trust board leadership positions for 2013. John Reynolds, a professor of architecture emeritus at the University of Oregon and a Eugene resident, was re-elected to a sixth term as president.

Debbie Kitchin, owner of InterWorks, LLC, a Portland construction company, was re-elected to a second term as vice president. Serving his first term as secretary is Salem resident Alan Meyer, director of energy management for Weyerhaeuser Company.

Drawn from communities around the state, Energy Trust directors represent a broad spectrum of expertise from the private sector and public institutions. Board members, all volunteers, provide strategic and policy direction for the nonprofit, which designs and delivers programs that help residential, commercial, industrial and agricultural customers save energy and generate renewable power. The 15-member board approves the organization's annual budget and major expenditures. Board members bring independent viewpoints to their oversight of Energy Trust, which invests in energy efficiency and renewable energy for the benefit of utility customers and operates under a grant agreement with the Oregon Public Utility Commission.

Since leaving active duty in 1984, Enloe served with the Naval Reserve, completed six reserve command tours and retired as a captain in 2009. He is a member of the Naval Reserve Association, the American Legion and the Navy League of the United States. A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a degree in electrical engineering, Enloe holds two patents.

Other members currently serving on Energy Trust's board include Rick Applegate, Applegate Consulting, Portland; Julie Brandis, Oregon State University Foundation, Corvallis; Ken Canon, Canon and Hutton law firm, Myrtle Creek; Anne Warrington Donnelly, Coos County Historical Society, Coos Bay; Roger Hamilton, Western Grid Group, Eugene; Mark Kendall, Kendall Energy Consulting, Salem; Jeff King, Northwest Power and Conservation Council (retired), Portland; Anne Haworth-Root, EdenVale Winery and Eden Valley Orchards, Medford; and Dave Slavensky, Structus Building Technologies, Bend.

Representatives from the OPUC and the Oregon Department of Energy serve as non-voting board members. Nine of the 13 voting board members are from outside the Portland region. All but three are employed in private sector enterprises.

All board meetings are open to the public. View board meeting dates, agendas and materials online at www.energytrust.org/About/public-meetings/BDMeetings.aspx.
